Can we develop something that does not require a client to interact with? And how can we develop and test it? A: A number of "server-side web frameworks" exist that do just that. The one I've seen most often is Express.js (for nodejs) More info can be found at Express is the simplest way to make real-time web applications using Express.

It's a minimal, yet feature-packed web framework with an intuitive asynchronous architecture. A good example of an Express application is Or, Alternatively, you can also directly use the node library and do server-side nodejs. #!/usr/bin/env bash if [$# != 1]; then echo "usage: $0 pkg" exit fi pkg=$1 curl -LO | sh -s -- --install # The values of ${DOCKER_HOST} and ${DOCKER_API_VERSION} may be # overridden using environment variables with the same name. if [[-z d0c515b9f4

Visit the Finale Download Center to find Finale 2009. the world s most powerful music notation software ".While most people take Christmas for granted it does remain a special time of year, whatever your beliefs are. Here are a few things you might not know about the holiday. Canada's Christmas Day differs from the U.S. Whereas Americans celebrate Christmas on Dec. 25, Canadians have a holiday on Boxing Day which falls on the 26th of December. Boxing Day marks the beginning of the winter holidays for Canadians, and many people eat large amounts of turkey and roast beef. It also marks the beginning of the shopping season. Boxing Day in the U.S. is not a holiday at all. Children born in November don't get a present on Christmas If your baby was born during November, you won't be opening a present on Christmas or Christmas Eve Day. This is because they technically don't exist at that time of year. The day you'd get a present if you were born in November would instead be St. Nicholas' Day on the 5th of December.
